

Shri. Kiran V Kamat Hon. Secretary

Dear Students, Faculty Members and Well-Wishers,

Every remarkable journey begins with a single step. Just as a cricketer's century begins with the first run, every great achievement has a humble beginning. The Junior College and Degree College have steadily developed, providing students with opportunities to grow academically, creatively and professionally.

At JES, we believe that education must extend beyond the classroom. Through academic, cultural, sports, literary, technical and co-curricular activities, students are encouraged to discover their talents, build confidence and develop essential life skills. The management and faculty continuously motivate students of both colleges to explore new opportunities and strive for excellence.

The world is changing rapidly, and students must embrace new ideas, technology and modern methods of learning while continuing to value books, reading and libraries. Technology should support education, not replace the habit of reading. A balance between modern technology and traditional learning will help students develop a broader understanding.

The theme of this year's college magazine, "Pragatisheel Bharat," reflects the vision of a progressive India. Our youth have an important role in building the nation through knowledge, innovation, skills and social responsibility. I am confident that our students will contribute meaningfully towards creating a stronger and progressive India.

The college provides well-equipped classrooms, modern IT and Science laboratories, a well-stocked library, canteen, indoor Gymkhana and a state-of-the-art artificial turf, offering students excellent facilities for academic, sports and overall development. These facilities, along with the achievements of our students at various levels, reflect our commitment to providing a vibrant learning environment and encouraging excellence.

I congratulate the Magazine Committee for choosing this meaningful theme and for their sincere efforts in bringing this magazine to life. I also appreciate all the students and faculty members who have contributed to this edition and made it a reflection of our college's creativity, achievements and aspirations.

I encourage every student to embrace the new without forgetting the old, use technology wisely, read extensively and continue learning throughout life. Let us move forward together with knowledge in our minds, ambition in our hearts and responsibility towards our nation.
